In the mean time Mr. Blair asked whether PROPOSED TAX ON DIVIDENDS. Mr. Plumb gave notice of an amendment which he proposed to offer imposing an annual tax of 3 per cent. on dividends of corporations, including interest on bonds.

In the mean time Mr. Blair asked whether a motion to adjourn would be in order. This was Labor-day, he said, and should be universally observed. He thought that the Senate, which worked sixteen hours a day instead of eight, ought to do honor to the occasion by adjournment.

Mr. Hoar gave it as his opinion that Labor-day would be better honored by legislation on behalf of labor.

"Very well," Mr. Blair said in acquiescence, "there are four labor bills that have been sent over by the House of Representatives. I would be very glad to have them acted on by the Senate."

"I desire," said Mr. Hoar, "to spend the day in legislation that will raise the wages of labor."

"I give notice to the Senator in charge of the tariff bill," said Mr. Blair, "that I will ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to give precedence to the consideration of labor bills that have been sent to us by the House of Representatives.

This is Labor-day, and there is a universal desire to do something for labor."

"EUNCOMBE SPECCHES."

Mr. Aldrich objected to any further buncombe speeches.

Mr. Blair's recognition of this remark was that the "representatives of monopoly might object," but that the Senate should nevertheless proceed to consider labor bills.

Mr. Aldrich asked the presiding officer (Mr. Ingalis) thereupon requested the Senator from New Hampshire to observe the rules and refrain from debate.

This little incident occurred before the appearance of a quorum, and before reading Saturday's Journal.

Mr. Sherman gave notice of an amendment which he proposed to offer to the tariff bill, looking toward reciprocity with the Dominion of Canada and toward "extending the trade relations between the Dominion of Canada and the United States."

Mr. Aldrich said be would not object if the bill could be disposed of without discussion. Mesers. Edmunds and Harris said that could not be done.

THE TABLET—WOOL AND WOOLLEN TARNS.

Objection was therefore made by Mr. Aldrich, and the tariff bill was taken up, the question being on paragraph 353, page 88 (as to wool and woollen yarns), to which the Finance Committee had reported an amendment increasing the duty per pound from twice to two and a half times the duty imposed on unwashed wool of the first class.

THE WEST FOR LOWER DUTIES.

The agricultural West, he said, never fassing the Speaker to appoint his successful.

The agricultural West, he said, neverfavored high protective duties, but did favor sufficient protection to cover the difference in wages, while at the same time the semblance at least of foreign markets was preserved. The West regarded a "revision of the tariff" as meaning a "reduction of the tariff" whenever possible, and not increases in import duties; and he was confident that the demand for a lower range of duties would have to receive an early and favorable response from Congress. Many of those duties, he said, now believed to be too high had long ago done the work which had justified their imposition. So long as a high tariff was needed to keep the wheels of industry in motion it has uncomplainly supported and properly defended it. But the sentiment was growing, and belief was becoming a fixed conviction in the West, as least as to some protected districts, that the decreased cost of production should not be met with a greater decrease of duties than the manufacturers had yet been willing to accept. The people of the West were beginning to think that if many of the most protected of these industries were ever to learn to stand alone their hands should be soon forcibly released from the skirts of high protection, to which they so persistently cling.

But the sentiment was growing, and belief was becoming a fixed conviction in the West, as least as to some protected districts, that the decreased cost of production should not be met with a greater decrease of duties than the manufacturers had yet been willing to accept. The people of the West were beginning to think that if many of the most protected of these industries were ever to learn to stand alone their hands should be seen forcibly released from the skirts of high protection, to which they so persistently cling.

THE DUTIES ON NECESSABIES.

He (Paddock) would reduce the duties on the necessaries of life to the lowest point consistent with the maintenance of home industries, and he would demand the reasons for every import—reasons that should be specific and conclusive, not only respecting the need of the duty itself, but as to the amount of such duty. The bill as reported, while much improved over the House bill, was, he admitted, something of a disappointment. He did not assume to have fathomed its intricacies, and he should not attempt a critical review of its provisions. Many reductions, doubtless, had been made by the Finance Committee that were not acceptable to the manufacturers, but he was certain that all who were favored most directly by the maintenance of high tariff duties would be better satisfied with bills on the lines laid down by the committee than any other class.

The following extract from the report this morning of the proceedings of the Raum investigating committee explains Mr. Cooper's action: "Mr. Smyser, a member of the committee, was sworn at Mr. Cooper's request. He said that he was a stockholder in the refrigerator company, representing himself and C. W. Kauke and D. C. Given, of Ohio, who had an arrangement with J. B. Taylor and C. B. Hord, of Worcester, Ohio. They had 2,020 shares and had paid $10,000 for them. The withness's share of the stock had cost $3,530. The subscription had been made last April."

FOR A BOUNTY ON TIN-PLATES.

He would treat the proposed tin-plate industry in the same way. He would not vote for the proposed increased duty on tin-plates, but he would cheerfully vote for a bounty to the tin-plate industry. He feit certain that it would be the part of wisdom and of justice to adopt the bounty policy rather than to increase the duties.

The rest of Mr. Paddock's speech was mainly devoted to a refutation of the statements made by Democratic senators as to the impoverished condition of the farming class, and he showed that in the State of Nebraska particularly there was no such agricultural depression, but that on the contrary the farmers were prosperous and the State rich and growing.

THE BENEFICENCE (?) OF PROTECTION. EILLS ON THE CALENDAR, The remainder of the day's session was devoted to motions to suspend the rules and pass bills on the calendar, but few of these were successful, and such measures as got through were only of local importance to the western and northwestern sections.

the State rich and growing.

THE BENEFICENCE (?) OF PROTECTION.

Mr. Platt set up the claim that the prosperity described by Mr. Paddock was directly due to the protective duties, and he spoke for some time in elaboration of his proposition.

Mr. Carlisle made the counter assertion that the Nebraska prosperity was not the result of protection, but had come about in spite of it, and he also argued his contention at some length.

Coming down finally to the pending amendment, Mr. Carlisle argued against it.

After some more discussion the committee's amendment was agreed to—yeas, 26; nays, 18.

The next paragraph was read. It relates to woollen or worsted cloths, knit fabrics, &c. The Finance Committee reports an amendment increasing the duty per pound from twice to three times the duty per pound from twice to three times the duty per pound on unwashed wool of the first class.

Mr. Carlisle confessed his inability, after the adoption of the amendment to paragraph 573, to make any proposition as to paragraph 374. If the importation of such goods v is equal to that of 1889 the revenue that would be collected under paragraph 374 would be $31,402,000, and that large increase would come not only from the very great increase of duty, but from the classification.

one successful democratic amendment. On motion of Mr. Carlisle the word "shawis" was inserted after the words "woollen or worsted cloths," Mr. Aldrich consenting to it, although he said it was entirely immaterial, as no such cheap shawls were imported.

This was the only amendment offered on the Democratic side that was successful, although a number were offered. Whatever amendments were recommended by the Finance Committee were figreed to.

PROPOSED TAX ON DIVIDENDS.

Mr. Plumb gave notice of an amendment After an illness of only one week Mrs. Captain H. M. Isaacson died at the McKinney House last night at 2 o'clock. Captain and Mrs. Isaacson were of New Orleans, and had for several years summered at Farmville, making by their genial companionship many warm friends, over whom a sad and decided gloom is thrown by the latter's unexpected demise. Mr. W. W. Fisher and wife, the latter the daughter of Mrs. Isaacson, reached her bedsides from Chicago on Saturday. FARMVILLE'S FORTUNES.

A Steady Advance in Values and Business All Along the Line. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

FARMYILLE, Va., September 1, 1890.
Circumstances are rapidly culminating in a grand advance all along the lines in business interest and material prosperity in the staid but certainly awaking town of old Farmville. Options are daily sought and closed on desirable residential, mercantile, and mining property, and the coal and iron company lately organized is earnestly at work. An invention of a Mr. Collins, living near Farmville, of an ideal carcoupler, lately patented, has been the occasion of the formation of a chartered company, which starts out with a bright outlook.

Finally the wool schedule was completed and Mr. Vance offered an additional amendment, of which he had heretofore given notice, allowing reductions of duty on goods purchased with the proceeds of American farm products sold in foreign countries, and he said he would ask for an evening session to-morrow to enable him to address the Senate upon it.

Schedule L. relating to silk and silk goods, was then taken up and amendments to it reported by the Finance Committee were agreed to.

Mr. Aldrich stated that the sugar schedule would be taken up to-morrow morning.
